

Editor's Report 2025

All four issues of the Bulletin and Bulletin Extra were published on time. I have continued to refine the magazine's format based on member feedback and our "Editor's Zoom" meetings, aiming to make it more engaging and accessible. Feedback has been positive, especially regarding the variety and quality of articles, though some members have requested more content on painting and model construction.

As editor, I rely on members to contribute articles, reviews, adverts, and other content. I appreciate everyone who has submitted material, particularly on Toy Soldiers, and those who participate in the Zoom meetings. Constructive criticism is always welcome.

Thanks to Tony Swift at Indigo Digiprint for his publishing support, and to Ralph Weaver for thorough proofreading.

The Bulletin Extra is now published on the BMSS website's members area, allowing for larger, higher-quality images. I hope the printed Bulletin continues, as it best showcases colour photos.

Website

I regularly update the website with show information, photos, and auction details. The homepage contact form is active again, and the Google calendar is kept current. I also aim to make the Facebook page more informative. Suggestions for improvements or corrections are always
